

Kevin Travers

Teaches 8th grade Special Education, Neil Armstrong Middle School Bucks County, PA

Mr. Travers started the group “Drummers with Attitude” through which he seeks to connect students of different backgrounds on three levels: with themselves, with each other, and with the world.

How do you incorporate students' voices and perspectives into the classroom?

“Performing more than 35 shows a year in the Drummers with Attitude program exposes students to cultures and histories outside of their own. It is essential to breaking down the lack of understanding that sometimes exists between them.”
