Olivia is a political activist and organizer. Whether it’s rallying at City Hall, marching in a protest, or handing out fliers about ballot issues, Olivia knows that liberty in America must be exercised. Olivia also takes her action a step further by encouraging her fellow students to join her in her activism. She and her classmates have rallied in support of minority representation in politics, and against racial profiling and the profiling of Muslims. Olivia understands the value of Freedom of the Press, and makes sure to contact news outlets before her class attends a rally or march. She is clearly positioned to become a politically active adult who makes a difference in the world.