ANDREA GREEN
Music & Drama Teacher, HMS School for Children with Cerebral Palsy, Philadelphia, PA

Proved that music brings people together

- Used her gift for writing and directing musicals to build incredible bonds of friendship between the students at her school and students at the Germantown Friends School
- Created a “Musical Exchange,” where students from both schools participated together in an original performance
- Found parts for all who wanted one, including those who could not walk, talk, or control their physical movements
- Watched with pride as the physical differences between the children melted away and friendships were formed that extended beyond this program
