We’ve Read, Let’s Romp!

Thanks for enjoying this week’s reading of “How do Dinosaurs say I’m mad?” by Jane Yolen & Mark Teague!

It’s so important to let others know how we feel. Today we’re going to make a feelings wheel that you can put in your home and use every day!

Supplies
- Printer* / worksheet printout*
- Scissors
- Crayons/markers
- Roundhead fastener (or paper clip)

Don’t have a printer? That’s okay! You can make this wheel from a blank sheet of paper or even a paper plate!

Instructions
1. Print out the feelings wheel and arrow below
2. Color in each Dino and draw how each emotion makes you feel
3. Attach your arrow with the roundhead fastener
4. Display your wheel and use it to

Don’t forget to share your work with us! @nationallibertymuseum
Don’t forget to share your work with us! @nationallibertymuseum #nlmathome